The U.S. National Endowment for the Arts (NEA) has been a major supporter of photography since 1968. Until 2000, they awarded grants directly to individual photographers, but in the early 1980s a newly-elected conservative Congress cut all funding for individual artists. Since then, the NEA has continued to award grants for photography, but these are given only to universities, museums, and nonprofit organizations.

This document is a record of grants and fellowships given by NEA primarily for photography-related projects, including support for individual photographers, photography organizations, museum and gallery exhibitions, community projects about and displays of photography, photographic residencies, books, and scholarly research about photography. It may be useful to researchers who want an overview of the amounts and kinds of support the NEA has provided for photography.

This is an extensive list from 1968 through 2016, but I don't claim that it's comprehensive. The NEA maintains an online database of grants awarded since 2000, but prior to that the only published information about their grants is in their annual reports. The reports are the source for the grants listed in this list.

During the 1970s and the early part of the '80s, these reports provided a bare minimum of information about the grants. Often there was just a grant category listed, such as "Museum Purchase Grants," and a listing of the awards in that category. Project descriptions or other details about individual grants did not appear in the annual reports until after 1977.

Given these limitations, in the early reports I was able to do only a basic keyword search for the terms "photograph" or "camera". These searches turned up organizations that had those words in their title, but it's very likely that some grants went to art museums or other institutions for photography projects that the search could not find.

The records in this report are organized alphabetically by the last name of the photographer. If you would like to download a spreadsheet that you can sort or filter for specific records, please follow this link.
